The massive Kliuchevskoi volcanic center is home to a diversity of volcanism. Kliuchevskoi volcano, the symmetrical cone (center, right) is the highest volcano in Asia and erupts frequently. Bezymianny volcano, in the lower right, is a Mt. St. Helens analogue composed of a large amphitheater holding a growing dacitic dome. The large edifice of Ushkovsky volcano, center, has not had significant historic eruptions.